CommUnity of Caring, Searcy

Volunteer Linda Doris grabs a backpack full of supplies that matches the needs of the vehicle's occupants and prepares to load it into their trunk at the CommUnity of Caring event Aug. 1 at Unity Health in Searcy.

To make getting the appropriate items quick, easy and with minimal contact, volunteer Gina Robins gathers the vehicles' information to help identify what a vehicle's occupants need once they pull through the handout area.

Alba Maciel of Searcy brings her three sons, from left, Alex, 12; Daniel, 7; and Andres, 12, to get some much-needed supplies to start the school year.

Lee Vaughn of Searcy drives his family to the CommUnity of Caring event to get items, such as backpacks and food, to help with the upcoming school year. Tessa Ryleigh, 12, waits excitedly in the back seat.

Nancy Lemus of Searcy takes her two sons, Adrian, 6, left, and Kenny, 8, to the CommUnity of Caring event to gather backpacks and other essential items to help with the family's needs during the upcoming school year.

Volunteer Sadia Curtis talks with a driver about the process of getting items during the event.

Sherian Morgan of Searcy and her daughter, Alex, 5, wait to see what items are provided at the CommUnity of Caring event for them to start the school year.

Volunteer Phyllis Worley gathers Maria Perez of Jacksonville's information to help identify which items her two daughters need to receive when they reach the handout area.
