

snapshots

The Polar Express Pajama Night at the Rialto, Morrilton

PHOTOS BY AMBER QUAID, CONTRIBUTING PHOTOGRAPHER

Members of the Reno family gather for The Polar Express Pajama Night at the Rialto to finish off the birthday celebration of twins Luke and John. On the front row, from left, are Luke, 11; John, 11; and Janis; and back row, Casey, Johnny, David and David Sr.

Lindell Roberts, movie operator and president of the Rialto Community Arts Center Board of Directors, volunteers to run the movie for the free The Polar Express Pajama Night at the Rialto in Morrilton on Dec. 21.

Carter McElroy, 4, tells Santa (Stewart Nelson, a former mayor of Morrilton) what his wish list is and takes a moment to get a photo with him during The Polar Express Pajama Night at the Rialto.

From left are Kylie Rusk, 8; Abigail Lovell, 3; Amy Rusk of Morrilton; and Devon Rusk, 10. Taking a break from the movie, they gather hot cocoa and popcorn before heading back into the theater.

From left are Stephen Judkins and Crystal Judkins, both of Pottsville, and Kaylee Lancaster of Russellville.

Wesley Robinson and his son Pierce, 5, both of Casa, are ready to watch The Polar Express during pajama night at the Rialto.

From left are Theresa Bertram, event coordinator; and volunteers Gabriel Webb, 16; Damien Collins, 16; and Emma Bertram, 15. They work together to make The Polar Express Pajama Night at the Rialto a success.

From left are Richard Hall; Savannalee Brannam, 11; Mandy Brannam; and Tyler Brannam, 16, all of Morrilton.

In the front row, from left, are Autumn Bryant, 8; Carter McElroy, 4; and Angeleah Hardiman, 15; and back row, Janine Bryant, Kathryn Weatherspoon and Isalah Williams, 16.

Katy Roetzell, 1, eats her favorite movie snack, popcorn, with her father, Mike Roetzell of Perryville.

In the front row are Janet Escobar, 13, left, and Amanda Escobar, 10; and back row, from left, Toni Monroe, 17; Clarissa Cervantes, 17; and Alexa Cervantes, 12.